- Fines up to EUR 20 million or 4% of global annual turnover of the previous financial year
- New privacy rights explicitly provided for the individuals
- Enhanced transparency obligations
- Specific data breach notification requirements
- Accountability entails extensive documentation obligations for companies
- Data protection officer requirements

What do you need to do?

GDPR – steps to compliance

How can we help you?

- ⇒ We can offer assistance in mapping the processing of personal data in your company by developing a customized questionnaire and other data mapping tools, which enables us to review and assess the existing status quo against GDPR requirements. We support you in identifying the needs for improvement in the compliance process and recommend you the appropriate measures tailored on your needs and industry specificity
- ⇒ We can assist you in drawing up internal policies with focus on IT security and data protection principles
- ⇒ We review the existing contractual framework with your clients and service providers and support you to achieve GDPR compliance

- ⇒ We support you in implementing privacy by default and by design principles on all levels, such as marketing, R&D sales, IT etc.
- ⇒ We offer client needs and industry focused trainings on GDPR legal framework
- ⇒ We partner with IT service providers to offer you mixed Legal - IT GDPR due-diligence expertise

We emphasize that all legal entities, irrespectively of their industry and size must understand the legal metamorphosis and the roles and responsibilities under GDPR.
